THE MONEY

Whenever people pay for goods or services, they use some form of money. Money can be almost anything, as long as everyone agrees on its value.

One of the earliest forms of money was metal, such as gold or silver. In North America, Native Americans used beads made of shell, called wampum, as a form of money.

The value of paper money and coins comes from an agreement between all people. They agree that they will accept certain forms of money in exchange for their goods and services. This agreement between people is the reason money works.
