Almeida Theatre

The Almeida Theatre, opened in 1980, is a 325-seat studio theatre with an international reputation, which takes its name from the street on which it is located, off Upper Street, in the London Borough of Islington. The theatre produces a diverse range of drama. Successful plays are often transferred to West End theatres.

Sandler's Wells

Sadler's Wells is a world leader in contemporary dance presenting a vibrant year-round programme of dance of every kind - from tango to hip hop, ballet to flamenco, Bollywood to cutting-edge contemporary dance - bringing the best of international and British dance to audiences at our three theatres in London.

De Beauvoir Town

De Beauvoir Town in Hackney is one of the best areas of London, for residents and those passing through by bike.

Since the 1970s, motor traffic has been prevented from rat-running through many of De Beauvoir's streets by strategically located 'filters' (bollards), thanks to a campaign by forward-thinking residents.

Regent's Canal

The Regent's Canal was built to link the Grand Junction Canal's Paddington Arm, which opened in 1801, with the Thames at Limehouse. One of the directors of the canal company was the famous architect John Nash
