

How do people celebrate the New Year abroad?

By Darina Pisareva

Japan

- In Japan, New Year is called Shōgatsu. As a holiday it is saturated with traditions from Shinto, Buddhism, and popular culture. Whether you live in Japan or America, incorporating Japanese New Year's traditions into your holiday will make it very memorable.

They decorate their houses

Japanese children celebrate the New Year in new clothes. It is believed that it brings health and good luck in the New Year

Japanese Santa Claus name is Segatsu-san - Mr. New Year.

The most popular Christmas accessory is a - rake. They are, in order, to have something to pull happiness!

Australia

- New Year's Eve in Australia is celebrated in summer. Since January in the Southern Hemisphere is hot, sunny weather.

- Australians are lucky more than others, because they are the first in the world who celebrate the New Year.

In Australia, the New Year celebration, traditionally is organized on open air.

In the new year, Australians arrange beach parties.

Italia

In the new year, Italians throw from the windows their old furniture.

- New Year's table consists of 13 dishes.

Give gifts on New Year's Eve, including children, in Italy is not accepted.

- New Year's Day have to spend as much as possible, because in the same way and will take place throughout the year.

Merry
Christmas