

Which computers are? Kinds and types of computers

COMPUTER IS A PROGRAMMABLE ELECTRONIC DEVICE CAPABLE OF PROCESSING DATA AND PERFORM CALCULATIONS, AND PERFORM OTHER TASKS TO MANIPULATE SYMBOLS. (COMPUTER IS A SET OF SOFTWARE-CONTROLLED ELECTRONIC DEVICES)

To work on a computer, you must have:

- Hardware (iron) - Hardware, ie physical devices that a person manages with the help of the program and receives inform
- Software - The software that set of programs necessary for processing various dataation from the computer

What does computer consist of?

- System unit is the case in which there are major functional components of a personal computer.
- Monitor is screen displays all the user information sharing process with the computer system.
- Keyboard is means entering information into a computer.
- Mouse is peripheral functions.
- Speakers are play sounds

Types of stationary personal computers

- Desktop computers is
- Nettops is a minimized version of the system unit, in addition to different sizes of lower power consumption and noise isolation, and as a consequence, in most cases, lower performance.
- Monoblocks is the same desktop computer, but without apparent chassis. Framework for this type of computers as a monoblocks is a common h a monitor.

Types of portable PCs

- Laptops and netbooks are their closest relatives are computers that you can easily transfer
- Tablets and tablet notebooks is plates are portable computers that have divided the needs of users with smartphones to PDAs, in one case the computing capacity to view web pages, videos and listening to music, there is touch-s device, a
- Pocket 1 smartph

- why you need a computer?
- What does computer consist of?
- What are types of stationary personal computers?
- What are types of portable PCs&?