

Mini-project: Russian as an international language

---

Fulfilled: Aksenov Pavel,
Stepanov Dmitriy, Albahtin
Andrey, Tsvetkov Sergey.

Target: To acquaint students with the peculiarities of the Russian language.

language?

Russian language, no doubt, is one of the richest and the most widely spoken languages in the world and deserves a place among the so-called world languages. Just as English and other languages used outside the country for which they are public or official, Russian is widely spoken outside of Russia.

International and interstate its scope is very diverse. Thus, it has long been acting as the "language of science" - a means of communication among scientists from different countries as well as coding and storage of universal knowledge (most of the volume of all the world's information published in English and Russian).

Russian is widely spoken in the world's communication systems (radio broadcasts, air- and space-based communication and so on. D.).

Russian as an international language?

Russian language in the absolute number of owning it is the fifth largest in the world after Chinese, Hindi and Urdu together, English and Spanish. His 1700 study of 90 universities, courses, in schools and so on.. In varying degrees of perfection he is known to half a billion people.

The Russian language is highly informative, that is, the ability to store your system's maximum experience and verbal creativity, proven tools and capabilities of expression and transmission of ideas.

Russian language has become a highly developed, rich, disclosed in its capabilities, ordered, stylistically differentiated, historically balanced language, able to serve the needs - both national and universal.

In what countries do people speak in Russian?

The number of people who consider Russian their native language, more than 200 million people, 130 million of whom live in Russia. The 300-350 million estimated number of people who speak Russian perfectly and use it as a first or second language in everyday communication in more than 10 countries, Russian is the official language, in two of them it is even a state. This, of course, the CIS countries.

Why is it important for teenagers from other countries to learn Russian?

It is important for teenagers from other countries to learn Russian because Russia is a great country and foreign countries collaborate and unite with Russia in solving some global problems no wonder they say Russian language is great and powerful

Thank you for attention!