Our tobacco comes from fertile red soil of Viñales, Cuba where tobacco leaves selected and harvested with traditional care.

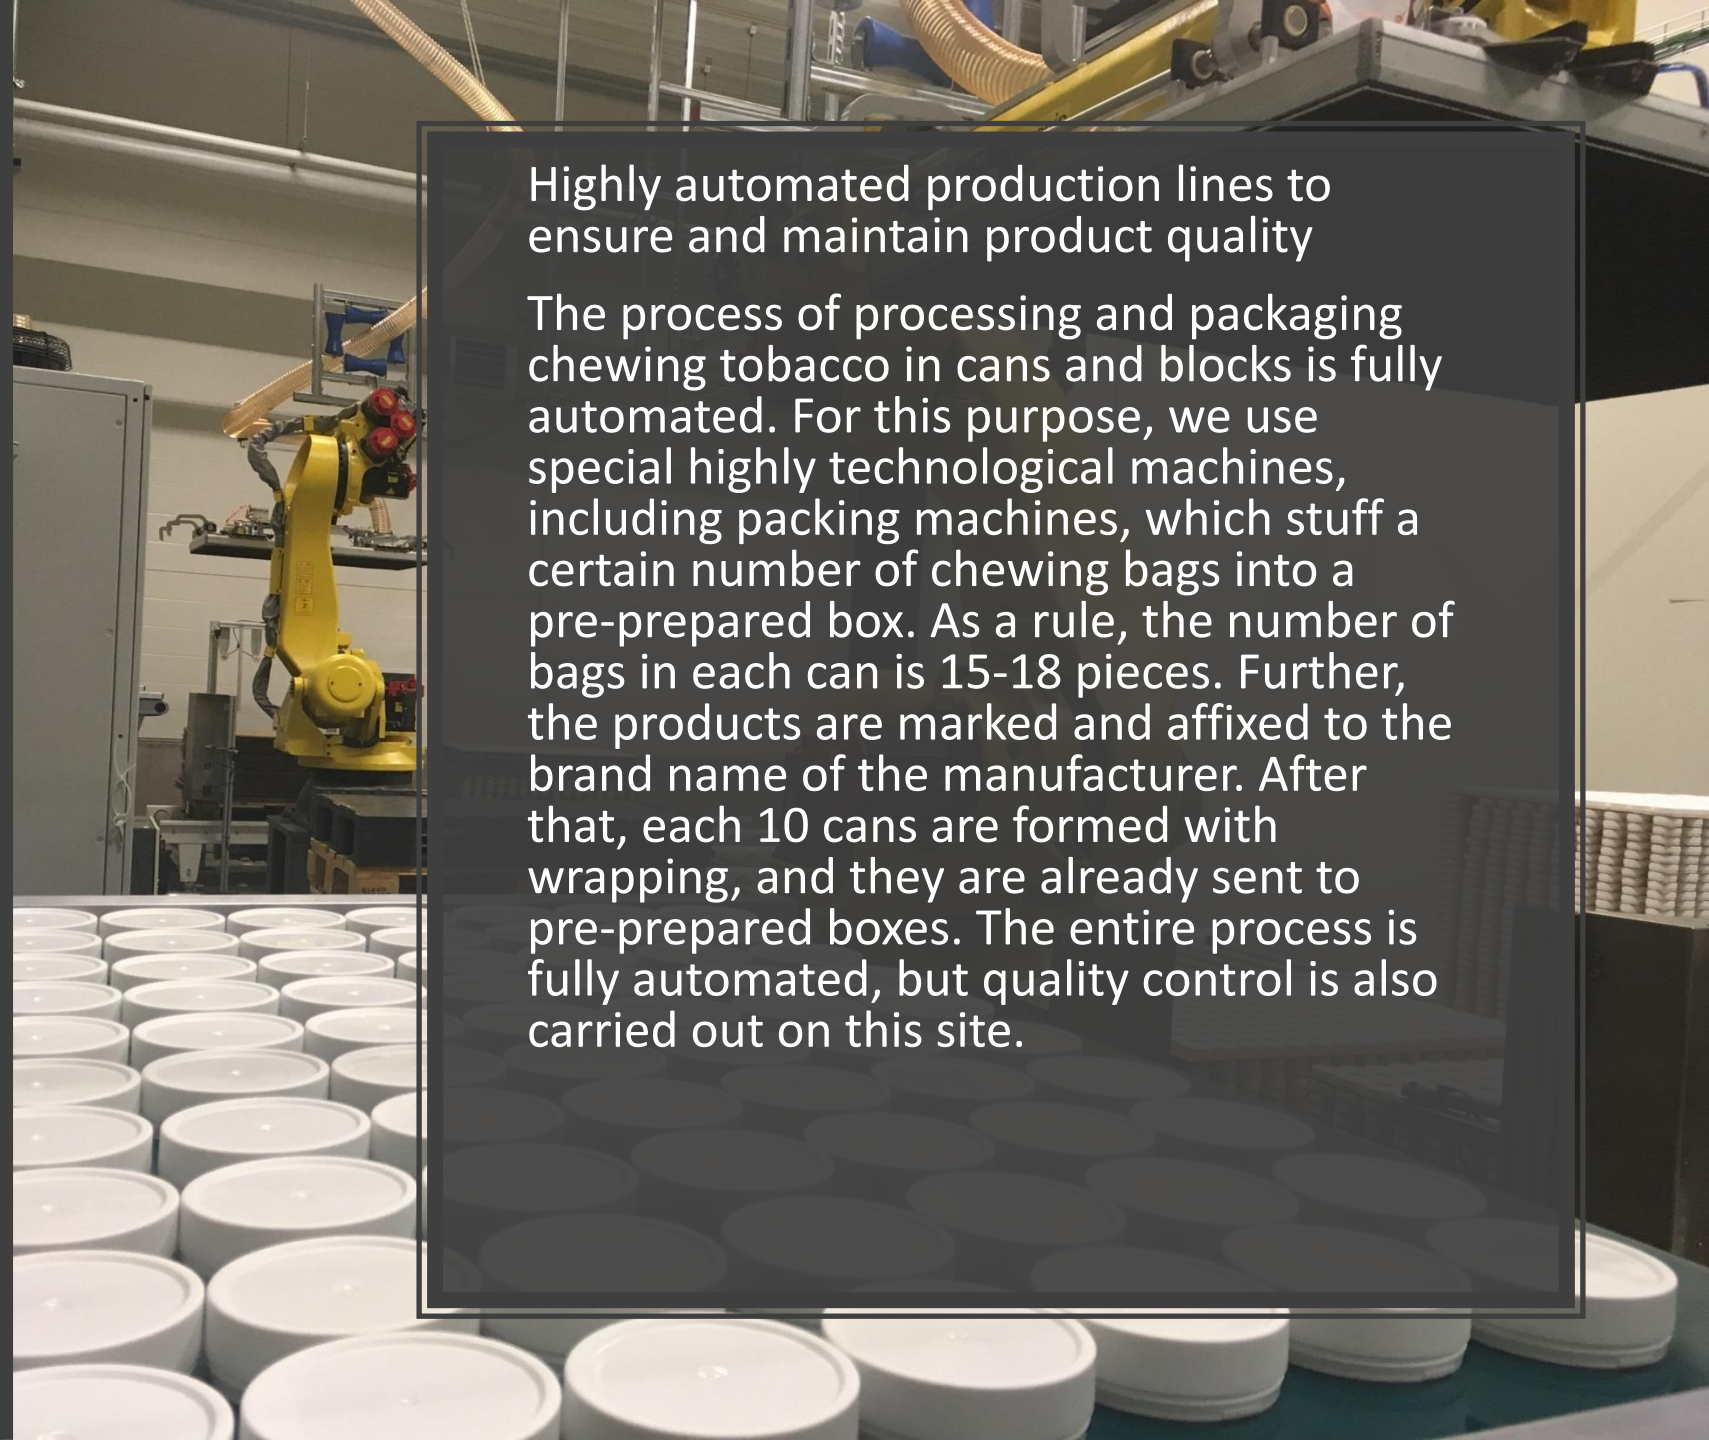

Over the past two centuries, numerous changes have taken place in tobacco production: agricultural machinery has reached unprecedented heights, whole scientific institutes have appeared, the main purpose of which is to obtain a quality product that has all the characteristics of a full-fledged taste and aroma of real tobacco. Science has done much to improve the quality of raw materials, new and proven varieties have been introduced.

After all the preparatory actions, the tobacco gets directly to our factory. For production, we use only specially prepared tobacco. The leaves first pass through fermentation, usually at least two times. These processes are necessary for biochemical changes to occur in the tissues of tobacco leaves. At the moment of chewing tobacco bags we feel the results of these processes in the form of specific and quite palpable aromas and flavors.

Then the tobacco is cut into small parts, moistened, mixed and sent to special cooled storage for taste maturation.

Before packing, we sieve the tobacco and enrich it with oxygen.

Highly automated production lines to ensure and maintain product quality

The process of processing and packaging chewing tobacco in cans and blocks is fully automated. For this purpose, we use special highly technological machines, including packing machines, which stuff a certain number of chewing bags into a pre-prepared box. As a rule, the number of bags in each can is 15-18 pieces. Further, the products are marked and affixed to the brand name of the manufacturer. After that, each 10 cans are formed with wrapping, and they are already sent to pre-prepared boxes. The entire process is fully automated, but quality control is also carried out on this site.

RooTs brand stands for its quality as simple as it can be. It is just perfect! The new RooTs Extreme Cold White Dry chewing bags delivers ice cold. It has a taste of strong spearmint with cooling sensation that emerges from natural oils otherwise it is earthy and strong tobacco flavor. With its refreshing anise-tone and slightly rosighet, has Byron Anis Serving a natural place in every knowledgeable tobacco users pocket. It stands out, simply. The iconic metal box contained a colorful history. Already in the nineteenth century began the recipe for the flavor you know today. This was first proposed gates up to what would become the mecca cigar connoisseur.

Byron

The characteristic taste takes you on a tour of nineteenth-century Cuba, where cigar spouses and cousins Jose and Eusebio had just opened the first ever Byron plant. Nominally taken the inspiration from the people dear poet Lord Byron. First, as an allusion to the almost poetic delicate blend of tobacco but as a nod to their British supporters. Today we pack the Cuban cigar tradition of snuff format, with fresh hints of bergamot. With a unique box that match taste and attitude, we welcome snuff into class salon engines.

Byron

The tobacco blend is basically the same but the size and appearance differs Byron Señorita Mini from his brothers. The design is a nod to snuff historic background. If you look closely, you can almost see its Cuban cigar predecessors wrapped in their beautiful porcelain boxes. For nearly two centuries Byron created, shipped and sold cigars to an exclusive group of the world. And we will give you the equivalent of snuff.
