Herbal teas

Herbal tea made from hibiscus beginning to steep

Herbal teas — less commonly^[1] called tisanes (UK and US /tɪˈzæn/, US also /tɪˈzɑːn/)^[2] — are beverages made from the infusion or decoction of herbs, spices, or other plant material in hot water. They do not usually contain caffeine.^[3] Herbal teas should not be confused with true teas (e.g., black, green, white, yellow, oolong), which are prepared from the cured leaves of the tea plant, Camellia sinensis), nor with decaffeinated tea, in which the caffeine has been removed. Like beverages made from true teas, herbal teas can be served hot or cold.

A super-low-calorie yet nutritionally loaded superfood: chia seeds are many an athletes' ammunition. Abundant in antioxidants, protein and dietary fibre and richer in omega-3 fatty acids than even salmon, our natural and organic chia seeds are a formidable food fit for almost any use! They also provide you with an array of precious vitamins and minerals to bolster your dietary intake for the better. Try them with your favourite meals or simply snack on them for tip-top daily nourishment. As our many fitness-fanatical customers across the UK and Europe will know, chia seeds are also best sprouted, ground up or made into a gel. This is very easy to do, and it's well worth it too, as doing so will significantly increase your nutrient uptake each time you consume them! So whether you want to make even healthier dess
