

Logopaedics

the subject of speech therapy purpose and objectives of

- Speech therapy - the science of speech disorders, methods of prevention, detection and elimination of special means of training and education. Speech therapy studies the causes, mechanisms, symptoms, course, the structure of violations of speech activity, the system of corrective action.

- Speech disorders studied by physiologists, neurologists, psychologists, linguists, and others. In this case, one considers them from a certain angle in accordance with the goals, objectives and means of their science

y L O
P a T F
G M h A D
m

KEEP CALM AND LOVE SPEECH THERAPY

- The main goal of speech therapy is to develop a science-based system of training and re-education of people with speech disorders, and the prevention of speech disorders.

principles and methods of speech therapy

- Systems principle is based on the idea of speech as a complex functional system, structural components which are in close cooperation.

- The principle of development involves the allocation process logopedic work the problems, challenges, steps that are in the zone of proximal development of the child.

- didactic principles: visibility, accessibility, awareness, personalized.
- the principle of a workaround, t. e. the formation of a new functional system to bypass the affected executives.

- The structure includes speech therapy preschool, school and speech therapy teens and adults. The aim of speech therapy - Development of overcoming and prevention of speech disorders and learning, teaching, educating people with speech disorders.

- Speech therapy examines the speech disorders in terms of prevention and means of overcoming specially organized training and education, so it is referred to special education.

THE END