Joe: Simon lowered me down but suddenly I struck my elbow against something solid. It was a vertical icy wall. I made an attempt to thrust the ice-axe into the icy rock but I didn't manage to do it. I realized that I was hanging hundred meters above the ground. I shouted so that Simon would stop lowering the rope down. I realized that the only way out of this situation was to climb the rope up. Unfortunately it was impossible because my fingers were frostbitten. I knew it was the end.

Simon: I didn't get the signal from Joe. The whole situation was unclear. I didn't know what to do. I was frozen with cold. I tried to hold the rope tightly but I felt that I was being drawn to the edge of the cliff. Sooner or later I would be pulled down to the edge of the crevasse. Then I took off my rucksack, reached for the knife and cut the rope.

Joe: I flew 50 metres down and fell on a flat slope. I didn't believe in miracles but that time I survived.

Simon: I got to the camp where our common friend was waiting for us. I was completely sure that we had lost Joe. Four days passed. And then, one night we woke up because we heard the voice. It was Joe's voice. We went in the direction of this voice. It was incredible. Simon was terribly injured but alive.

Answer the questions:

- 1. Do you think Simon made the right decision?
- 2. What would you have done?
- 3. Why?
