Royal palaces and houses were built along the banks of the Thames in medieval days, 'coz the water was a busy way into and out of London.

The H.P. called officially the Palace of Westminster were a palace for queens and kings.

The H.P. contain the universal symbol of London – Big Ben. B.B. is named of the biggest bell inside the Clock Tower witch forms part of the H.P.

The Palace of Westminster has two miles of corridors and more than 1000 rooms.

The House of Lords looks more splendid with its beautiful red benches than the House of Commons.
