Her childhood

Ariana Grande-Butera was born in a small town on the East coast of Florida, Boca Raton, on June 26, 1993. Parents Joan Grande and Edward Butera instilled a love of art in their children from an early age. Ariana's older brother, Frankie, became a successful actor and producer, and is now her younger sister's agent. Ariana was not even four years old when her parents sent her to the musical theater "Little Palm Theatre", and 4 years later she made her debut on television, singing the us national anthem. During this period, Ariana received her first role in the musical "Annie", and later in productions of " the Wizard of Oz "and"Beauty and the Beast".

At the age of 13, the girl seriously thought about a musical career and began to tighten the vocals of the famous Hollywood teacher Eric Vetro, who put the voice of many American stars. After the master classes, Eric gave positive recommendations to Ariana, and her older brother took up Her career.

Early career

In 2007, the girl flew to Los Angeles for a meeting with managers, saying that she wanted to record an R & B album. She was rejected, and then Ariana returned to acting and in 2008 successfully auditioned for the role of Charlotte in the Broadway musical Jason Robert brown "13". Grande's acting debut was highly praised by critics and awarded her the national youth theater Association award. Participation in the production did not allow Ariana to continue studying at North Broward preparatory school, so the young actress received educational materials at home and studied with Ariana's successful debut attracted the attention of Directors and casting producers. In 2010, the girl received a role on the Nickelodeon channel in the television series "Victoria-winner" directed by Dan Schneider. For the role of kat Valentine, Ariana had to radically change her appearance, and from a pretty brown-haired actress turned into a fiery beauty with purple hair color. Then Ariana was afraid that because of such changes in appearance, fans will turn away from her, but the new image of the actress was accepted by fans with a Bang Later, the series "Victoria the winner" closed, and Ariana was offered to star in a sitcom-a continuation of "Sam and kat".

Personal quality

He is a complete vegetarian. Previously, she tried to eat only organic food and considered herself a peskovegetarian, which means that she did not eat any animal food except fish, but now she refused to eat seafood. According to her, even the transition to peskovegetarianism was quite difficult for her, she broke down several times and returned to her favorite burgers. On may 22, 2017, during an Ariana concert at the Manchester stadium, a suicide bomber detonated a bomb in the foyer, killing 23 people and injuring 122. After these events, Ariana visited victims in hospitals, and also organized a charity performance to raise funds for rehabilitation.

I chose Ariana Grande because I think she is a very responsive, kind and sweet girl. At her young age, she achieved great success. I also like to watch TV series and movies with her participation, as she is a talented actress.
