Text

I study at the best school in the world.
Each pupil of our lyceum thinks so.
Here is an atmosphere of friendship and understanding, so I go to school with pleasure.

Firstly, each lesson in our lyceum is a mini-performance: different presentations, interesting experiments, exciting teachers' stories and pupils' discussions. For such lessons we should thank our teachers - the fairest, kindest, cleverest and most sociable people.

Secondly, don't think that we have only classes. Different events take place before, after and during the classes: concerts in connection with different holidays, children's parties, sport competitions, Olympiads, contests, etc.

Each class has its own “bank account” where money is given for good affairs: for the help to the library, for good studying, for keeping the school clean..... At the end of the school year the best classes get sweets and biscuits at the smart Holiday of the School Honour.

I would also like to tell about the friendship of the children from different classes. The students of our lyceum always help each other in spite of their age difference. If you lose something, you should tell about it to the Council of Senior students and your lost thing will be found without doubt, because only honest and responsible students study at our school.

If you look at my school, you can think: “A typical school! There are millions of such schools everywhere.” No, my school is the best in the world and it has a proud name – Lyceum!
