How did this specialty appear ?

- A person who is in public service should have knowledge from different fields. Starting from law and ending with biology and geography. This knowledge will help to make high-quality management decisions.
- In our country, competent specialists in this specialty began to appear only in the two thousandth year. At a time when the country was just rising from its knees, competent specialists were needed.

Where can I go to get a job after training?

- Administrations of different levels, and this may be the presidential administration.
- Various executive bodies: committees, departments, departments dealing with the economy, housing, education, health, transport, social protection, ecology.
- Diplomatic departments, departments for foreign economic relations.
- Supervisory authorities (tax service, law enforcement, bailiff service).

- Legislative structures, whether it is the State Duma, the regional or regional Legislative Assembly or the Council of People's Deputies directly in the municipality. Here you can speak directly on a professional basis, as well as in the supporting apparatus of the entire body or a single deputy.
- Various civil institutions dealing with social protection, insurance, and pension provision.
- Multifunctional centers that provide public services to the population.

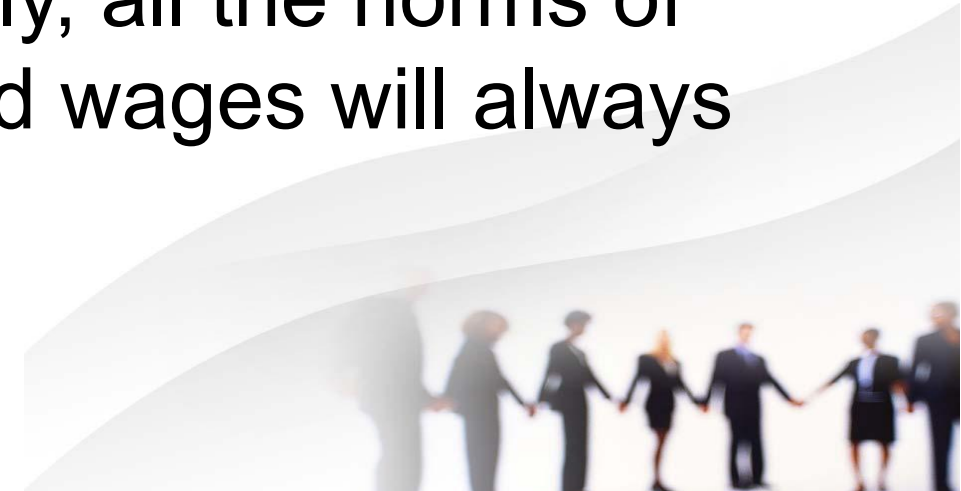

- In addition, you can stay as a teacher at the university (having previously completed master's and postgraduate studies), go to research centers.
- Also, commercial organizations, where managerial personnel is needed, very often prefer applicants with a diploma of state and municipal administration.

Advantages of working in government structures

- If you choose the profession of state and municipal administration, you will be provided with a job. The vacancy market is constantly being updated, and there is a demand for specialists, both in federal and municipal bodies.
- The employer is the state. Accordingly, all the norms of labor legislation will be observed, and wages will always arrive on time.

- Career growth can begin in an ordinary municipal administration, and end in the State Duma – it all depends on the ambitions of the employee, his skills and efforts.
- The knowledge gained during training and in the process of work will allow you to quickly and effectively solve your own everyday problems, since you will know exactly what you need to pay attention to in contracts, where you need to apply for a particular problem, what rights you have.

- Many employees have business trips in their work, so you will have the opportunity to visit different parts of Russia and not only.
- Being a manager is prestigious. Employees belong to the modern intelligentsia.
