

Why I want to be a Prosecutor

Mikayelyan Andrush 11-SPD

First of all, I want to say that one of my hobbies is the History of Russia and World History. These two directions are very close to me, because I always want to know where it all started, what the prerequisites were for the events and what the consequences were after them. The creation of the Prosecutor's office under Peter the Great is a very significant event for the history of Russia, because in 1722 a new link of the legal system appeared and this link is still working and very properly.

The purpose of the Prosecutor's office, to summarize, is to ensure that citizens of the Russian Federation comply with the laws and do not violate them. They have a very wide range of powers, starting with appearances in court on the side of the prosecution in the interests of the state, ending with the detention of persons at the scene of a crime or the commission of a misdemeanor.

So why do I want to become a prosecutor?
Everything is simple. The allure of this job. The experience that she will give in life. Lots of privileges and rights. If we summarize all this,
we can understand that this work, although hard,
but it fully pays for this heaviness. Where else
will you work with the police side by side?
Where will you visit the crime scene yourself?
Where can you improve life in the country if not
at this job?

It is for all these reasons that I so want to become a prosecutor and I am obliged to achieve this and prove to myself that I am capable of it.

Thank you for your attention
