Автор концепции	Сущность концепции
Георг Зиммель, немецкий философ и социолог	Конфликт — снос старых культурных форм новыми. Сущность социального конфликта заключается в столкновении между постоянно обновляемым содержанием жизни и устаревшими, отжившими формами культуры
Герберт Спенсер, английский философ	Социальный конфликт обусловлен борьбой за существование, которая в свою очередь определяется ограниченным объёмом жизненных ресурсов
Карл Маркс, немецкий экономист и социолог	Существует постоянный конфликт между производительными силами и производственными отношениями, который по мере развития техники и производительных сил становится всё более острым, пока не приводит к смене способа производства. Классовая борьба, классовый конфликт являются движущей силой истории, порождающей социальные революции, в результате которых общество переходит на более высокий уровень развития
Макс Вебер, немецкий социолог, философ, историк	Конфликт имеет ценностный характер. Общество есть арена социального действия, столкновения ценностей и норм, являющихся атрибутами тех или иных индивидов, социальных групп или институтов. Борьба между социальными структурами, отстаивание ими своих социальных статусов, своих стилей жизни в конечном счёте стабилизирует общество

Marcus Garvey

Fundó la Universal Negro Improvement Association Profetizó el advenimiento del Redentor de la raza negra en África.

Ras Tafari Makonnen

Emperador de Etiopía en 1930. Tomó el nombre de Haile Selassie I adoptando el nombre de León de Judah y proclamándose como del linaje del Rey Salomón y la Reina Sheba de Etiopía. Se lo considera como la presencia de Jah en la tierra.

Etiopía

País de procedencia de los primeros esclavos jamaiquinos. Cuna de la civilización al haber sido el lugar supuestamente habitado por Adán y Eva. El rastafarismo la considera la Tierra Prometida.

Rastafarismo

Religión basada en una interpretación del Antiguo Testamento. Sus principales estamentos son el regreso de la raza negra a Zion escapando de la opresión occidental y una vida ligada al consumo exclusivo de lo que Jah provee.

Ital

Forma de vida rasta puramente natural. Niega el consumo de todo lo que es modificado por Babylon. Por esto, prohíbe el consumo de químicos, tabaco, alcohol y alimentos envasados y alienta el consumo de frutas y verduras naturales. Al ser una hierba provista por Jah, contempla el consumo de Marihuana.

León

Animal sagrado del rastafarismo por ser "dócil pero poderoso cuando es provocado". El emperador Haile Selassie I tenía varios como mascota.

Zion

Nombre tradicional de la tierra santa. Como lo es Jerusalén para cristianos y judíos. Etiopía lo es para el rastafarismo. Es a donde deben regresar los negros escapando de la opresión occidental.

Babylon

Su simbolismo responde a la ciudad caída. Representa la opresión occidental sobre la raza negra. La policía que los persigue por el uso de Ganja es Babylon, la persecución racial es Babylon. Babylon es todo odo lo represivo y lo no sagrado.

Ganja

Nombre que le da el rastafarismo a la Marihuana. Su consumo no es mal visto en la religión por ser natural. El rastafarismo no alienta su consumo recreativo sino como una ayuda espiritual y un medio para la introspección y la meditación. La religión no promueve el uso de drogas, un rasta puro, se abstendrá de heroína, LSD o cocaína. "Es una planta capaz de unir un país, libera de la basura inútil que Babylon trata de enseñarnos y nos ayuda a concentrarnos en Jah."

Dreadlocks

Forma de peinado típico de los rastas. Simboliza, por un lado, la adoración al León or otro, tiene un origen bíblico siguiendo la creencia que el pelo de Sansón caía en mechones (locks) y que es símbolo de fuerza y poder.

Jah

Dios de los rastafaris. Su presencia en la tierra es representada por el emperador Haile Selassie I de Etiopía.

Nivea accused of racism over skin-lightening ads

by DANIEL BINNS

NIVEA has come in for a storm of criticism over 'racist' adverts promoting a body lotion that lightens the skin of black women.

Adverts for the cream, which promises women 'visibly fairer skin', have appeared on billboards and in TV spots across West Africa.

In one clip, a black actress says she wants to 'restore my skin's natural fairness' as she rubs the lotion onto her arms, before a man compliments her 'beautiful glowing skin'. She adds: 'Now I have visibly fairer skin, making me feel younger.'

Many people reacted with horror to the ads when they were shared on social media yesterday. American actress Monica

Apology: The Dove TV ad with a black woman replaced by a white woman

Legal and Kenya, a report by the University of Cape Town said last year.

The products are also popular in parts of east Asia.

Beiersdorf Global, Nivea's parent company, did not comment.

The furore comes months after Nivea apologised over adverts for a deodorant in the Middle East which featured the tagline 'White is Purity'.

Earlier this month, Dove 'deeply regretted' the offence it caused with an advert featuring a black woman pulling off a T-shirt to reveal a white woman.

Raymund tweeted a clip and said: 'Whoa... this is horrendous. Nivea is pushing this racist ad in Africa. Speechless'.

London-based entrepreneur William Adoasi commented: 'This is why black businesses need to rise up and cater for our needs. Nivea can't get away with pushing this skin-lightening agenda across Africa. Appalling.'

Another commentator wrote: 'There is a market for this in Africa. Sadly, Nivea is taking the bait.'

About 75 per cent of women in Nigeria use skin-lightening products, with demand...

A PENIS, IT LIVES. A VAGINA, IT DIES.

5000 years ago, the Chinese philosopher Han Fei noted a remarkable thing about his fellow countrymen. 'When a father and mother produce a boy,' he said, 'they congratulate one another, but when they produce a girl they put it to death.'

The methods Chinese parents used to kill their baby girls were numerous. Smothering, drowning, denying nourishment... sometimes babies were simply abandoned on hillsides to die of exposure.

What never varied were the lengths parents went to in order to have sons.

One might assume that this grisly practice had long been consigned to the dustbin of history, but remarkably if Han Fei came back today, he would find not much had changed.

Modern medical technology, in particular ultrasound scans, has given Asian parents the ability to determine the sex of their children in a manner undreamed of by their forebears. Parents are now routinely scanning to determine the sex of their child, and aborting it if it is a girl.

The practice is rife right across Asia, from India and Pakistan to China, Korea and Taiwan.

The figures are shocking. In the past thirty years, 160 million Asian girls are estimated to have been aborted. That's the entire female population of the United States of America.

And no longer is it an evil associated with poverty. Sex selective abortion has become a lifestyle choice of the urban middle classes.

The result is a social time-bomb ticking in our midst.

In Taiwan, for example, there are 750,000 more men than women. By 2020 there could be more than 30 million young 'surplus' males in China and 20 million in India.

The result is a rising tide of human misery. Dramatic recent increases in sex trafficking, abduction and enforced marriages have been blamed directly on the growing imbalance of males to females.

In Taiwan, Vietnamese brides are being traded on eBay. (Having run out of their own.) Other girls are being abducted off the streets of Hanoi and trafficked across the border into China. In India, girls as young as 5 are getting married, while in China the ancient practice of kidnapping a girl and bringing her up as a bride has been revived.

This is just a taste of what's in store if the gendercide is not halted.

The Life Foundation has been working for seven years with Governments, NGOs and health workers to raise awareness of this issue. If you would like to support our work, please visit our website at stopthegendercide.com. Or failing that, please tell someone or show them this ad.

But please don't delay. Ultrasound scanners are now getting so small they can be fitted in the boot of a car. Soon you will be able to get a scan when you pick up your McDonalds.

What's so special about Carbon?

Carbon is backbone of life

- Carbon, along with Oxygen, Hydrogen, Nitrogen, (and Phosphorous) make up "life".
- C is abundant (on earth).
- C has 4 valence electrons.
- C can make up huge array of C-containing polymers.
- C is water-soluble.
- C is small size and intermediate energy levels (so enzymes can manipulate).

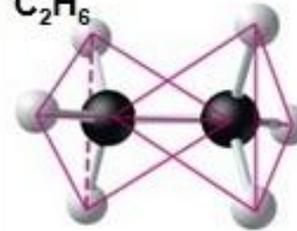

Si is alternative, but larger, more stable, tends to form crystals.
