

Capital punishment

FOR AND AGAINST

Use the Past Perfect Continuous or Past Perfect in the following sentences.

1. Her name was Helen. She (to be) a widow for fifteen years and had no children.
2. We talked about what we (to do) since we left school.
3. We told them that in our absence the garden (to be) looked after by an old man who (to live) in the area since the war.
4. Now they were floating in the little green boat upon the perfectly calm sea in which they (to swim) lately.
5. Jack was half an hour late and he asked what we (to eat) because he wanted to order the same.
6. Nick said that he (to write) all day and (not to eat) anything.
7. It was cold and dark in the small room because it (to rain) for five days.
8. I went into the kitchen. Nothing (to be) touched in it since the morning before.
9. He said he (not to write) to me because he (to work) on the new play for some months.
10. It (to freeze) for the last few days, but it (not to snow).
11. I was sure they (to know) each other since the war and now (to correspond) for years.
12. I told him I (to be) in all evening. I (to wait) to talk with him for an hour.

Бессмысленная жестокость – приговор – спровоцировать преступление – ограниченная ответственность – советы по УДО – психическая неполноценность – цензура – категории преступления – испытательный срок – индивидуальное лечение – правовед – осужденные – мотивы преступления – обстоятельства преступления – физические лица – учреждения – законное применение – отмена смертной казни – хищение имущества – обвиняемый – отбывать пожизненное заключение – тюремный срок